Points Game

Current Dictionary entry

A game that finishes at the conclusion of any end wherein the total recorded score of either or both singles players or of either or both teams of doubles players is equal to or greater than a pre-determined number, and the game winner is then determined by the highest score. Play may continue if the total scores are tied, usually for the number of additional ends needed to give every player one additional hammer (i.e., two ends in singles; four ends in doubles).
