- + Provides the most fun at any price, yet the total cost to participate is far less than for most sports.
- + It is, without question, the ideal and most popular activity for retirement communities.

- + While not requiring the physical strength or agility of some sports, this mild form of exercise has no equal from the standpoint of the strategy and finesse that can be employed.
- + The fellowship enjoyed through becoming an active participant with new made friends could be your greatest gain of all.
